Bulletin-September 2017

With the election almost upon us we are aware that the impact of a change of government will mean a big change in overall immigration policy, which may well affect our ability to attract skilled candidates from overseas. Our experience in the past decade has been one of having to source overseas candidates for a growing percentage of senior roles and whether or not the ability to do this will be compromised waits to be seen. In the meantime the market is buoyant and we have a wide range of candidates from various sectors who are on the move and looking to grow their career in new roles. It's a key time to reward and retain your top performers and cast your eye over new talent. Thirty years on we are here to consult and assist you:
